

A view on the City of Dunedin

Hier eine Mail von einem Schüler, der 2012 in Neuseeland war und dort die King's Highschool in Dunedin besucht hat.

"It was like an Oscar for me"

Hello everybody,

I miss NZ so much. I miss King's. I miss the people. I miss Dunedin. Everything. My German school is nothing in comparison to King's. At King's I was motivated to do and to reach something and I wanted to do and reach something! I loved the people and the teachers at King's. Could you say hi to my favourite teachers Mr Minnar, Mr Campbell, Mr Davis, Mr Mcpherson, Mr Mclean, Mrs Joyce and Mrs Klitscher? Building men for life, that's the school's motto. You made me a man. In Germany I don't like going to school because teachers don't like me or they hate their job. At King's I loved going to school because every teacher gave me the feeling that they love their job and care about every single student. The rating I got at the end of my time in NZ was the best thing I've ever received in my life. I felt that people understood what I can do. It was like an Oscar for me. What I also love about King's is the feeling of a brotherhood. I've never had this before at my schools in Germany. We're just going to school, are there for 6 hours or so and then we go home. Everybody hates it and some people even hate each other. I never felt this at King's because everybody respected everybody.

Mr Campbell made me a perfect cook. My girlfriend loves my food. :)

Mr Minnar gave me those sheets from Queen and Haendel. I finished them at home and all the other sheets he gave me. I now have an Excellence in Music. :) I started playing rugby over here and after a few weeks I'm now playing for the NRW team. It's a bit like the Otago team. I wear my uniform whenever I can to show the pride for King's High School.

I also have an "Excellence" in English of course which wasn't very surprising. ;)

I hope you are doing fine down there and I miss everybody! I loved to stay with you, Cursey and Carwin. I liked staying with you as a family so much.

Take care
